Description

Picture this: coral stone walls catching the Dominican sun, floor-to-ceiling windows flooding every room with natural light, and your kids racing between the pool and the game room while you sip coffee on the terrace. Villa Berta isn't just another rental, it's where 16 of your favorite people create memories that last.

The architecture tells its own story. Those dramatic peaked roofs you see? They're not just for show. They create soaring ceilings inside that make even the quietest morning feel like an occasion. The natural coral stone facade stays cool to the touch even in afternoon heat, while those massive glass doors dissolve the line between inside and out.

Five bedrooms spread across two floors give everyone their space. The ground floor keeps things accessible for grandparents or anyone who'd rather skip stairs. Head upstairs and you'll find the master suite plus two family rooms that actually sleep four each, real beds plus sofa beds that don't feel like punishment.

The kitchen? Actually, make that kitchens, there are two. Because when you're cooking for 16, you need the space. The formal dining room handles 24 guests when you're feeling ambitious. Most nights, though, you'll probably end up at the BBQ area, everyone gravitating toward whoever's manning the grill.

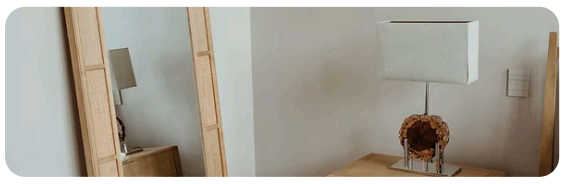

That pool isn't just for swimming. Those in-water loungers let you spend entire afternoons half-submerged with a book. The professional sound system reaches from the living areas to the pool deck. Upstairs, the family lounge has billiards, ping pong, and enough board games to survive a rainy day (though rain's unlikely).

Your dedicated staff handles everything from breakfast to turndown service, working from 8 AM to midnight. They know Casa de Campo inside out: every secret beach, every reservation worth making.

Daily resort fees apply for access to Casa de Campo's beaches and facilities.
